

Corporate News Update June 2014

Start in Kentucky, first production expected in summer

We are glad to inform about the positive proceeding in a new oil prospect in the State of Kentucky. NORTHWEST OIL & GAS TRADING COMPANY, INC. in May decided to be a part of a LLC which is the owner of a promisingly lease in the heart of proven oil reserves. These leases already have 3 wells, one of which is ready to pump immediately. The other two wells will require re-working, but in both wells crude oil is present. The wells were drilled to a depth of approximately 500 feet and has been producing out of the so called Niagaran sand zone and Corniferous sand zone.

With no water present in the oil, well # 1 is scheduled to have a slight re-work to clean paraffin from the down hole. This re-work is scheduled to begin in July and be completed by August. We are confident both further wells will produce oil also, once the wells are reworked, but will give no estimate as to what production may be.

It is believed a very large reserve of untapped oil is in a deeper formation which is also expected in our lease. To date, no other well in this area has been drilled into these formation. But it has been discovered throughout Kentucky that these formation could be a major producer of high grade oil. Drilling for this well is scheduled for August 2014. If we hit we expect a very good production return.
